Dear Chelsa:

Guåhan Sustainable Culture is a non-profit organization dedicated to food security and food sovereignty on Guam. Our mission is to cultivate ideas and strategies of environmental sustainability within our local community through practical education, social engagement, and collaborative partnerships. GSC believes that environmental sustainability translates into the well-being of our island community.

We anticipate participating in and supporting the 2023-24 USDA AMS RFSI (Resilient Food System Infrastructure Program) in the following way(s):

As a collaborator and lead for Guam on the USDA Regional Food Business Center, we will partner with the Department of Agriculture to provide technical assistance offerings, to provide services to farmers/applicants to help formulate proposal applications for the Infrastructure funding.

The individuals and our organization agree to abide by the management plan contained in the application. We extend our well wishes for your proposal and eagerly anticipate a productive collaboration within this highly significant program.

Sincerely,

Michelle Crisostomo
